Build Your Business & Grow Your Wealth

“While the drafting stage of any building project is crucial to its success, planning is absolutely vital to the success of your business. We can help you with the all important selection of your business structure, your branding, website, payroll and software selection. This is in addition to the usual small business compliance issues of GST, BAS, PAYG and Superannuation.”

Christopher Tolevsky - Principal

Having an accountant who understands your architectural business can provide significant benefits. We recognise the fact that as an architect or draughtsman you have to deal with clients who frequently change their mind and have unrealistic expectations, often without a budget to match. While this can be frustrating, our brief is to reduce the frustration you have with tax, financial and compliance issues.

Over the years we have helped a number of architects and draughts people through the various stages of their business life cycle and we can provide you with a range of accounting, tax and business coaching services to support and grow your business. Some key services include financial modelling to assess various ‘what if’ scenarios, cash flow projections, payroll and tax advice. We also use industry benchmarks to compare your business performance against your peers to help you assess what is working in your architectural or drafting business and what needs working on.

Finally, we believe our client brief also includes helping you grow your personal wealth and our financial planning division can help you with tax effective wealth creation strategies including negative gearing of property and the establishment and management of your own self managed superannuation fund.
